I am a motivated and curious PHP/Laravel developer, I have a single experience as a developer and I have been studying PHP and Laravel, practicing a lot with courses, projects, video classes and now I am looking for an opportunity for my profile in some company where I can show my value and contribute to the company's projects

EXPERIENCE

2022 - 2022

Backend Web PHP Developer | AML | Sao Paulo, SP

As a member of the back end team, I first went through an immersive training bootcamp where I learned all the basic concepts from logic to the very language we used in the company in the case of PHP and with the support of the team I performed the risk assessment of customers by crossing information with the database and displaying the result of this classification in the web browser. As a member of the back end team, I first went through an immersive training bootcamp where I learned all the basic concepts from logic to the very language we used in the company in the case of PHP and with the support of the team I performed the risk assessment of customers by crossing information with the database and displaying the result of this classification in the web browser. It was where I learned the basics of programming logic, OOP and also the fundamentals of the PHP language, since leaving the company I have stayed active practicing and studying through courses, boot-camps and guided projects on YouTube, sometimes alone I try to keep up to date.
